from said first location [and said second location containing a graphical element whereby said first and second printed matter is printed in at least two separate and distinct locations on said document, and in a second color], and said second color [determined to minimize contrast between said second color and said second location] being selected to effect minimal contrast between said second printed matter in said second location and its immediate background;

wherein said second printed matter cannot be [clearly resolved by a viewing person] perceived without magnification of the second printed matter; and wherein said first and second printed matter conveys identifying information.

Sub D2
11. (Amended) A system of tamper resistant identification documents comprising:

a plurality of identification documents, each of said documents displaying information specific to a particular person;

each of said documents comprising first printed matter rendered at a first location on said documents at a first scale enabling said first printed matter to be [resolved by a viewing person] perceived without magnification; and second printed matter representing said first printed matter at a second scale and rendered at a second location on said documents [and at a second scale] and in a second color, said second scale being significantly smaller than said first scale, said second location being spaced from said first location, and said second color being selected to effect minimal contrast between said second printed matter in said second location and its immediate background, [and wherein said information is represented in a second color determined to minimize contrast between said second color and said second location said second location on each card being spaced from said first location on each card and containing a graphical element whereby said printed matter is represented in at least two separate and distinct locations on each said card,] wherein said second printed matter cannot be [resolved by a viewing person] perceived without magnification of the second printed matter, and wherein said first printed matter of each card is specific to the particular person identified in each card.

providing a base card;
printing information which is specific to the particular person identified on said base card at a first location and at a first scale enabling said printed information to be [resolved by a viewing person] perceived without magnification; and representing said information on said base card [at a second location and] at a second scale, and at a second location on said document, and in a second color, said second scale being significantly smaller than said first scale, said second location being spaced from said first location [and containing a graphical element, whereby said information is represented in at least two separate and distinct locations on said base card], and said second color being selected to effect minimal contrast between said second printed matter in said second location and its immediate background; and wherein said said second printed matter cannot be clearly perceived without magnification of the second printed matter. [information represented at said second location is represented at a second scale which requires the information to be magnified for a viewing person to clearly resolve the information represented at said second location and wherein said information is represented in a second color determined to minimize contrast between said second color and said second location.]

Claims 1, 3-6, 8-11, 13-16, 18-21, and 23-26 are pending in the application. Claims 2,7,12,17,22 have been cancelled. There are no allowed claims. Claims 1, 11, and 21 are the only independent claims. All pending claims are rejected on the bases of either 35 U.S.C. §112, and/or §103.

Claim Rejections – 35 USC § 112, 2nd Paragraph

Claims 1, 3-6 and 8-10 have been rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being “indefinite”. The Examiner argues that the recitation “and in a second color” in claim 1, leaves uncertain whether the second printed matter is printed in a second color, or if both the first and second matter are printed in a second color.

Applicants appreciate the examiner’s comments. Claim 1 is amended herein. Claim 1 now recites, among other things, that “said second color [is] selected to effect minimal contrast between said second printed matter ... and its immediate background”. While the
